People,
Places, & Things
That Make America Great!

Dr. Lillian Quackenbush
Artistic Director

As we move into year number fourteen, the Sandlapper Singers organization is building an audience that has come to expect only the finest in choral singing and music that makes you smile. With a brand new auditorium in which to perform, a slightly larger group of singers, and a growing emphasis on educational collaborations, the Sandlappers are poised to take our organization to the next level. All we need to get there is your patronage, inspiration, and willingness to talk your friends and neighbors into coming to a concert with you. Once you get them there, we'll do the rest. Won't it be great to have them become just as big a fan as you are?

“American Faces”
Thursday, October 16th

Our opening program will be a snapshot of the people who make up this beautiful, diverse population of Americans. Some of them you will instantly recognize and others will only be vaguely familiar until you hear the music. One of the new faces you will see and terrific voices you will hear is our winner of the Katie Quackenbush vocal scholarship, Sam Grosby. Sam will be a senior at Hammond School this fall and is a student of Tom Brunson.

“American Graces”
Friday, December 18th

Remember the voices of those angelic choirs from our concert last December? Get ready to enjoy the beauty of more than 100 voices once again singing your favorite Christmas songs joined by the Sandlapper Singers instrumental ensemble. We will host choirs from an elementary, middle and high school for our holiday program while we celebrate the many things for which we are thankful as Americans.

The Sandlappers welcome our special guests from Satchelford Elementary School, Crayton Middle School and the Falcon Singers from Flora High School to help us celebrate the season.

“American Places”
Thursday, February 18th

The season wraps up early next year due to a huge community project that the Sandlappers will be spearheading later in the spring. But before spring gets here, we'll top off our season with a finale that will take us from sea to shining sea, to a wonderful array of places we call home. Traveling with us will be students from the Dreher High School Dance program and Sandlapper Singers instrumental ensemble.

Join us after each concert for refreshments and to meet the singers
